

Transnational Labor Symposium Series

“Union Feminism, Sexual Politics, and Transnational Labor Activism”

by

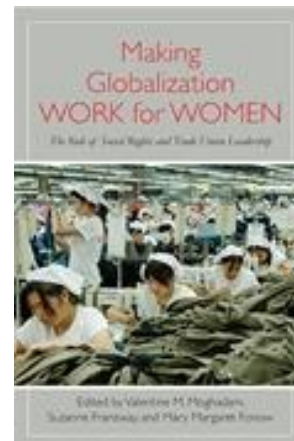

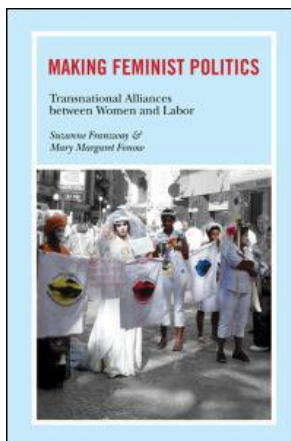

Mary Margaret Fonow

Director, School of Social Transformation
Professor, Women and Gender Studies
Arizona State University

Monday March 26, 2012

12noon- 1:30 PM

Center for International Program—Room 115

Mary Margaret Fonow was named founding Director of the School of Social Transformation at Arizona State University in 2008. Her research interests include transnational labor activism, women and work in the global economy, and feminist methodology. Her most recent work focuses on the reformulation of labor rights and women's rights as human rights, and includes two books published in 2011, Making Feminist Politics: Transnational Alliances between Women and Labor (University of Illinois Press) and Making Globalization Work for Women: Social Rights and Trade Union Leadership (SUNY Press). Fonow provides national leadership for the research training of doctoral students in the field of women and gender studies and is a member of the UNESCO Women and Gender Research Network.

Sponsored by

Julian Samora Research Institute, Department of Sociology, Our Daily Work/Our Daily Lives, The Labor Education Program/School of Human Resources and Labor Relations, Center for Gender in Global Context, and Office for Inclusion and Intercultural Initiatives

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC